

82. EYE-DEBT: TO QUINTIUS

uintius [p. 230], if you want Catullus to owe you his eyes or something that might be more dear than his eyes, don't steal from him what's much dearer to him than his eyes, or something dearer than eyes.